

Change in political attitudes: Panels and experiments

CALL FOR PAPERS

Dates: 7-8th June 2012

Venue: Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona

Organizers: Democracy, Elections and Citizenship Research Group

Deadline for paper proposals: 15th February 2012

This workshop aims to bring together scholars working on the analysis of political attitude change. We welcome contributions that focus on attitudinal change and rely either on panel surveys or experimental designs. Substantive and methodological papers from both senior and more junior scholars are welcome.

We especially encourage papers that:

- analyze short and long term changes in a wide range of political attitudes such as political preferences, political involvement, attitudes towards democracy, etc.
- analyze the consequences of the economic crisis for changes in political attitudes.
- use panel data with more than two waves, use experimental research designs, or use a combination of both.

The following scholars have already confirmed their participation in the workshop: André Blais (University of Montreal), Claes H. de Vreese (University of Amsterdam), Jose Fernández-Albertos (CSIC), Simon Jackman (Stanford University), Martin Kroh (Humboldt University), Michael Lewis-Beck (University of Iowa), Yotam Margalit (Columbia University), Markus Prior (Princeton University), Willem Saris (Universitat Pompeu Fabra), Natalie J. Stroud (University of Texas).

We invite those interested in participating in the workshop to submit paper proposals (max 500 words) before the 15th February 2012 to jordi.munoz@uab.cat

The paper selection will be notified by 15th March 2012. If accepted, the full paper must be submitted by 31st May 2012. Works should be delivered in English and must be no longer than 8.000 words.

Participants are encouraged to seek funding for travel from their home institutions. However, a limited number of travel grants will be available for the junior participants.
